Backgrounder:

High-school teams from across Northern Ontario will perform improvised games to determine this region’s representative at the national finals in Ottawa later this year. Complete information is available online at www.sudburyimprov.com. The Canadian Improv Games is an improv tournament for high school students. They have regional competitions in 19 locations across Canada – from St. John’s, Newfoundland to Victoria B.C. Each region sends a representative to the national finals to determine the national champion. This is our fifteenth year for the Sudbury tournament.
